TUES	Today I met with team on google meets. The purpose of the meeting was to distinguish what the desired Data Flow Diagram would be most suitable to present to the client for our next meeting. We also discussed a few components of the diagram and what the process is.
WED	Today I had to re do my data flow diagram for the graduate recruitment portal because the one I did was wrong, and I had to implement the manual process of the recruitment steps. We also met informally today as the group and chose the best diagram to present to the client.
THUR
FRI	Today we met with the client, and we presented the diagram we thought best represented the manual steps the administrator implements. We came to find out that the diagram presented was a level one diagram and needed a few adjustments. We then got introduced to Figma a data flow designing tool that would unify the design an implantation of the group.
